Favorite Fall Flavor Trends

The demand for protein in food and beverages has been rising for the last 5 years and shows no signs of slowing down. As consumers peruse the grocery aisle, they are bombarded with colorful claims for “Stronger Muscles”, “More Energy”, and “Healthy Aging” from protein-packed powders, drinks, snacks, and even cereals. With an abundance of options, many consumers are relying on flavor to determine which items end up in their cart. This fall’s flavor trends allow consumers to surrender to their cravings without sacrificing their health.

From Trend to Test Kitchen: Dot Cakes!

We don't question the latest baking craze; our innovative team embraces it. Dot Cakes, anyone? These humble, little cakes have been selling out within hours at New York storefronts. Adding to our amazement, influencers across the country have racked up millions of TikTok views by simply taste-testing and recreating the trendy treats at home.

Naturally, we wanted to put our own spin on the trend. We started with a spiced apple cider cake batter formulated with Econo Bake® Milk Replacers to deliver a moist texture and rich flavor. Then, we incorporated a powdered whole egg replacer, which offers nutritional benefits comparable to regular eggs while reducing production costs.

To help our version stand out even more, we swapped traditional frosting for a stabilized whipped cream. Keystone® Stabilizer Systems help the topping maintain its structure and hold onto its colorful coating of sprinkles, just like a classic buttercream.

The result? A soft, flavorful cake with a satisfying crunch, and a formulation built around consumers' desire for texture-led indulgence.

The Dotcakes Bakery

in Roslyn, N.Y., originated the viral dessert: a mini cake cup covered in a thick layer of colorful nonpareils.
